

Illinois DogEar

There is no easy way for students to access and take advantage of the resources here at UIUC. There isn't a central location for campus resources and so we needed to design a mobile app that would easily link students to these resources.

The Illinois DOGEAR app will be a tool that aggregates all the University's available resources and allows students to easily and quickly access them from any location.

We started off by listing all the resources that the University provides, including books, movies, online articles, technology, study rooms, class help, etc.

We then devised an organized system to categorize these resources.

From there, we researched popular UI's of other applications and tailored a custom interface that maximized usability and navigation.

DogEar

The name reflects the common idiom for bookmarking a page by folding down a corner.

The simplicity of the action reflects the intuitive nature of our mobile app and its functions.

Students will have a new understanding of what resources the University has to offer. They'll be able to make the most out of the opportunities that are so often overlooked and use this to their advantage academically.

THANK YOU!
